

COOKIES POLICY

This Cookie Policy applies to Privacy Symposium Africa. (“PSA”, “we” or “us”).

We employ “cookies” or similar technologies. This Cookie Policy tells you about the use of Cookies and similar technologies on www.privacysymposiumafrica.com (the “Site”).

At any time, you can change your browser settings to refuse or restrict cookies, and you may delete them after they have been placed on your device at any time. If you delete our cookies, some areas of the Site that you access may take more time to work, or may not function properly.

General Information about Cookies

What are cookies?

A cookie policy is a list of all the cookies in use on your website with detailed information about each tracker made available for end-users to provide them with insights into how their personal data is being processed when visiting your domain.

Please note that certain functions of our website may no longer work or work not correctly without cookies. If you want to learn more about cookies and how they work, please visit: www.allaboutcookies.org or: www.youronlinechoices.com

The cookies we use

Cookies make the use of the Site easier by, among other things, saving your preferences. We may also use cookies to deliver content tailored to your interests. Our cookies may enable us to relate your use of the Site to Personal Data that you previously submitted. The information that we collect with cookies allows us to statistically analyze usage of the Site, and to improve and customize our content and other offerings. However, we only disclose information collected with cookies to third parties on an aggregated basis without the use of any information that personally identifies you.

Categories of cookies

Depending on their function and their intended purpose, cookies can be assigned to the following categories: strictly necessary cookies, performance cookies, functional cookies and targeting cookies.

Strictly necessary cookies

Strictly necessary cookies are required to navigate our websites and operate basic website functions. Examples for strictly necessary cookies are login cookies, shopping cart cookies or cookies to remember your cookie settings. Without these cookies certain basic functionalities cannot be offered. Strictly necessary cookies are always active and will be placed without your consent.

Performance cookies

Performance cookies – aka analytics cookies - collect information on your usage of our websites. They identify e.g. your internet browser, operating system, visited websites, duration and number of website visits, previously visited website, most commonly visited websites and errors you experienced. The information collected is aggregated and anonymous. It does not allow a personal identification. It only serves the purpose of evaluating and enhancing the user experience of our websites.

To the extent that information processed in connection with performance cookies should qualify as personal data, the legal ground for that processing is your consent.

Functional cookies

Functional cookies enable a website to store information and options you have already previously entered (e.g. username, language settings, layout settings, contact preferences or your location) in order to offer you improved personalized functions. They are also used to enable requested functions, like playing videos.

To the extent that information processed in connection with functional cookies should qualify as personal data, the legal ground for that processing is your consent.

Contact us
